The Stitch In Time

OME time ago Mr. Thomas Hollinger, living in Kapiolani Park, some distance from a fire station, bought a fire extinguisher. He had no call to use it but he kept the chemicals in it as religiously as if he had. The buying and the keeping was the proverbial "Stitch in Time."

Thursday morning a fire was dsicovered in one of the rooms in his house. The mosquito netting and the bedding were in a blaze when a member of the family entered the room. Her first thought was the extinguisher and in less time than it would take to get the telephone in service the fire was out.

Without the extinguisher and without the thoughtfulness of the young lady. who put it in action, Mr. Hollinger would today be considering plans for a new house.
